

This workshop is brought to you by the REA Tech Committee. We invite you to join us for a free workshop in which we'll consider the challenges involved in making learning and teaching visible. Learn what digital badges are, play with "gameful" learning, and hear how experienced teachers from Jewish and Christian contexts have used digital badges to support specific learning tasks.

Sunday, 6 November, 10:30am-Noon
Wyndham Grand Pittsburgh Downtown
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

A free workshop at REA2016
making learning visible

Digital Badging in Faith Contexts

Moderator:

Mary Hess

University of St. Michael's College

Panelists:

Liron Lipinsky

Director, Joint Jewish Education Program
Pittsburgh

Lisa Brown

Director of Digital Ministry, Membership Vision
St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh

Kyle Matthew Oliver

Communications, Media, and Learning Technologies Design Program
Teachers College, Columbia University, NYC

This workshop is free and open to the public, but you must register at

<http://religiouseducation.net/rea2016/badging>

The Religious Education Association (REA) is an Association of Professors, Practitioners, and Researchers in Religious Education

