

Saint Paul School of Theology

Saint Paul School of Theology invites applications for a full-time faculty appointment in Practical Theology with competencies in Pastoral Care and/or Christian Religious Education, rank open. The position is tenure track or tenured. Saint Paul School of Theology is committed to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, and especially invites candidates who embody diverse perspectives, methods, and approaches to their field.

Candidates for the position must have a Ph.D. or equivalent academic degree in a relevant field. The cover letter should also indicate scholarly and teaching competence in any other areas relevant to theological education. Successful applicants should be equipped to teach on-campus, hybrid, and online courses. Candidates should be willing to locate at either of Saint Paul's campuses. The appointment begins on July 1, 2023.

Saint Paul welcomes nominations for the positions, and the search committee will begin processing applications on October 1, 2022. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Applicants should send the cover letter, CV, and 3 letters of reference to: practicaltheologysearch@spst.edu. Questions about the search may be addressed to Elaine Robinson, chair of the search committee (elaine.robinson@spst.edu).

Saint Paul School of Theology (www.spst.edu) is a seminary of The United Methodist Church with campuses in Leawood, KS, and Oklahoma City, OK. The seminary is unique in its relationships with Leawood United Methodist Church of the Resurrection and Oklahoma City University, each of which contributes to the quality of the curriculum. Faculty are committed to rigorous education of students from diverse denominational contexts, common interests in social justice, and flexible course delivery. The seminary offers MACM, MATS, MDIV, and DMIN degrees shaped by action/reflection approaches and committed to equipping students for Christian leadership in diverse contexts. In addition to teaching and scholarship, faculty are engaged in service to the seminary, the church, and to peace and justice efforts. Saint Paul School of Theology is an EEOC employer.